in cooperation with

presents for the third time the Working Conference

TOLC

Transformation:
Organization, Leadership and Creativity

September 10-13, 2021
Hotel Noble House, Malmö, Sweden

A Working Conference is founded on the idea of learning through experience. This means that learning opens up for creativity, individually and together.

How do we create an organization? How do we use our creativity when leading? In what ways can creativity lead to innovation and development in organizations? How do we build our workplace units, sections and divisions; our macro and micro organizations? Leadership takes a role in all this, for sure.

What about the role of creativity?

Development means transformation. How can we make sure we have a continuous development in our leadership and our organizations? These questions, and many others, can be explored in a Working Conference.

The conference will give opportunities to explore and reflect on how each person take on their role/s and how each person wants to transform and thereby develop these. This transformation process, we think, will lead to the transformation and development of the organization. Because it won't happen by itself.

The primary task of the conference is:

To give opportunities to explore and learn about how organization, leadership and creativity are linked together, to open up the possibilities for transformation and development.

For whom is this conference?

Everybody who has a leadership and/or managerial role in one or several organizations, or anybody who is simply curious about learning in a creative way about development and transformation. The conference is seen as a temporary, learning institution.

No earlier Working Conference experience is needed, except for participation in the B-system.

Conference director:

Louise Edberg

Conference coordinator:

Lukas Lybeck Sköld

Wendy del Cid

The conference staff has been recruited from the sponsoring organizations networks.

TOLC is now being presented for the third time. The conference has been held annually in the south of Sweden since 2018. Due to the current situation with the COVID-19 pandemic, we have decided to postpone this year's conference to the next: it will take place September 10-13, 2021. We have also relocated to a new venue: the Noble House Hotel, situated in central Malmö, Sweden.

In line with the ideas constituting the theme of the conference - creativity and transformation - we are now also offering previous participants of TOLC, or any similar Working Conference, to participate in a B-conference. Participation will in this case be differentiated in two important ways:

- Firstly, participants of the B-system conference will constitute their own subsystem.
- Secondly, the participants of the B-system conference will take on the role of co-consultants in the LIV working sessions.

Working Sessions

Intro Plenary

We gather together and start the conference. What are the experiences of passing over the threshold between the Conference and the surrounding context?

Intro Plenary B

We gather together and start the B-system. What are the experiences of passing as a separate subsystem over the threshold into the conference from the surrounding context?

B-system

The B-system gather and work on preparing their role/s as co-consultants. This is done through working with their own subsystem as a whole, as well as working with other questions that are important to the system.

Sociogram

Using a Gestalt method, we will work on the three themes of the conference, to make roles and organization/s visible. Every sociogram is accompanied by interviews with each participant. Polarization and complementarity will be visualized and explored.

Transformations Analysis – TA

Work in smaller groups, where reflections can be made regarding learning, taken roles, organization and creativity. Here, participants can catch the opportunity to have insights and start the process of transformation.

Transformations Analysis B – TAB

The B-system work together to reflect on learning, taken roles, organization and creativity. Here, participants can catch the opportunity to have insights and start the process of transformation.

Dream Matrix

A reflection working session where we use dream material to try to understand, on a deeper level, what the state of our organization is.

Macro

Here, we have the opportunity to explore what is happening in the “here-and-now” when all the participants are gathered together.

Micro

Here, we have the opportunity to explore what is happening in the “here-and-now” when the participants are gathered in smaller systems.

Life in the Institution – LIV

All participants and all staff are working together in smaller systems. The aim is to work creatively and actively so that the participants will take responsibility for the last working session in LIV.

Reflection

The whole conference gathers and reflects.

Final Plenary

Here we will have the possibility to share experiences and thoughts on learning, new insights and new working tools.

Final Plenary B

Here the B-system will have the possibility to share experiences and thoughts on learning, new insights and new working tools.
